

My brilliant laptop

Once there lived a kid called Jack. He had a laptop that he did everything on. He got it in 2008. But Jack wasn't just a normal kid, he was a secret agent. He was on a mission to catch a burglar who steals laptops. Jack was not scared of him. On the 24th of April, Jack set up cameras all over Telford so he could see if he has stolen anyone's laptop. After he put up the cameras he went home and played on a math's games for 10 minutes then played on more educational games, his laptop was handy for this. Also, Jack put up a camera in his house by his laptop. So if his brother went to go on it an alarm will go off. Jack tested it with a teddy and it worked perfectly. Last night with the cameras inside Telford, Jack saw the burglar. He climb through a window and stole someone's laptop.

Chapter 2: the trap

The next morning jack got out of bed took his laptop and went outside and pressed a button and put his laptop on the floor then it transformed into a car. He climbed in it and zoomed off. He came back 10 minutes later and his car was full of sign's Jack took them all out. He started putting the sign's around his front door. Each one said on it 'lots of laptops in this house'. Then he got more stuff out the car put them in his letter box. The next morning he woke up then he just remembered it was Monday it was a school day. Jack got ready for school. He was outside the building and playing with his friend then heard his mum talking about the laptops she said "I think the laptops are great for school work" then the bell went off.

Chapter 3: finishing the trap

After school Jack rushed home. He said "good his trap hasn't been used" he went in the camera room and looked. He saw in the corner of his eye the burglar sneaking through a window with a sack. Jack pressed a button. An alarm went off in the house, the burglar jumped back out the window and rushed to his car and drove off. Then he went to his front door and took the stuff he put through the letter box and dumped it on the floor. He took a button which was connected to a box and put it by a window. He did the same to every window. Then took his laptop and transformed it to a car and droved off. He came back with lots of big cages. And put them on top of the windows. He transformed his car back to a laptop and went to bed. He tried to stay up all night playing on his favourite subject maths.

Chapter 4: the bugler.

After he played on nearly every maths game he fell asleep. While he was sleeping a really loud alarm went on and then a loud clash sound. Jack went down the he looked at nearly all the windows in the house, then saw that the burglar had climbed through his window and put his hand on the button and the cage has fallen on him. Jack went up to the burglar and took his mask off. Then he gasped. It was his friend James. "Why James did you steal all those laptops?" "Because I wanted lots to make an evil robot" he replied in an evil tone. Jack said "return everyone's laptop and be good". The next day was Tuesday and it was school. Jack got ready for school and went off. The school bell rung and everyone rushed in. When I got some work I was really good at it "I think playing all those maths games has helped me a lot on school work" after school he got back home and found some mail on the floor it was for him. He opened it and it was from James saying 'I have returned everyone's laptop and have changed my ways'. Sorry ☹